

Mobile Application Solutions

Mobile Application Solutions

Employees in the post-PC era no longer want to be tethered to desktop or web-based applications. They want to access information via mobile handsets and tablets anytime, anywhere. This is made possible by today's sophisticated smartphones and other portable devices, in conjunction with 3G and 4G networks and a deluge of innovative mobile applications.

Organizations are increasingly incorporating mobility into their business strategies, identifying which users and processes should be mobilized, and securing and managing various initiatives.

Our solution helps customers every step of the way

PCCW Solutions offers mobile application solutions tailored to iOS and Android operating systems, running on reliable and secure server platform or cloud-based IT environment.

We help companies identify the steps they should take to enhance their mobility strategy, and plan for the physical and financial resources required.

The process involves topics ranging from app design, implementation roadmap and mobile content management to app integration, security and the user experience/interface. In addition, our technical know-how covers both mobile and server application programming. We also provide consultancy on mobility roadmaps, as well as application maintenance and support.

PCCW Solutions help enterprises maximize business growth, along with performance and scalability. For customers who want to save an upfront investment, they can opt for a subscription model.
